

The Alan Bond Medal

The A.M. Bond Medal introduced in 2012 was designed to give recognition of outstanding achievement in chemistry and to promote chemical communication. It is awarded for excellence by a young researcher. Nominations for this award will be announced on the website and via emails to the RACI Membership.

The nominee must consent in writing to the nomination. The Committee reserves the right not to make an award.